SOFTBALL NEWS

The Champion men's team and ladies' team played Vulcan on local diamond on Tuesday evening. Vulcan winning both games. In the first game Vulcan got an early lead but it was anyone's game until the last ball was pitched. Vulcan finally winning by a score of 5 to 4. The girls' game proved to be a free hitting erratic game in which Vulcan took an early lead which was never threatened. Both the girls and the men are playing return games at Champion on Friday evening.

The Vulcan Girls' Softball Club suffered a 12-7 defeat when they played the Blackie "All Stars" on the Vulcan diamond on Sunday afternoon last.

The Vulcan men's softball team won the tournament at the Arrowwood sports day, defeating Queenstown in the first game and Mossleigh in the final match. In the latter, Mossleigh held the lead until the ninth inning, when the local boys tied the score and came through in the tenth inning with the necessary tally.

We hear that effort will be made to start baseball in the school after the summer holidays. If so, perhaps Vulcan will be able to field a baseball team next year. Smaller points such as Lomond, Arrowwood, Cayley, Mossleigh and Blackie are fielding teams, so why can't we.

However, even at the age of 75 years this sprightly old gentleman, with a twinkle in his eye and a good word for everyone he knew was unwilling to sit idly by, and for many years grew the finest garden in the district on his acre of land.

MUTUAL UNDERSTANDING

A returned man, commenting on the harmonious blending between soldier and civilian which is necessary for national progress, observes "Civilians are getting a load of instructions on how they are to treat the veterans. They are to exercise understanding and wisdom, infinite patience with any little whimsies and maladjustments they may find and at all times they must keep in mind the ordeals which the soldier has suffered. Now that is all very well. But it is just half of the picture. I think the soldier could also do with a little enlightenment. For years now he has had not the slightest anxiety for his food, clothing and shelter. He has forgotten many of the worries of competitive civilian life. He comes home, feasts on beefsteak and the fat of the land, and forms the impression that Canadians at home have been leading the life of Riley while he has been risking his life. Some of us realize that civilians have been having their own troubles and plenty of them. But this knowledge isn't general enough amongst the boys, nor enough appreciated. In time they will find out, when they start in business or have to find jobs in order to live. But I don't like to think of them belittling what has been done at home. There should be mutual recognition of effort."

Perhaps this is a good thought. At any rate it is a recognition on the part of one man that Canadians at home have also played their part. Superficially, to a man returned from the devastation of Europe and the self-denials of Britain, Canada may look untouched by war. It is true no bombs have fallen, no homes have been destroyed, nights were unbroken by enemy menace, lights burned brightly, and food was relatively plentiful. There was little physical danger resulting from war.

But there was civilian effort comparable in many lines with that of any warring country. Except in war industry there was a tremendous shortage of labor, a shortage felt in every phase of work. Available labor was largely untrained, in many instances overage or underage, a fact which put an ever-mounting burden of work on those who were trying to hold together the little businesses and farms for the boys who were fighting overseas. There was shortage of materials, with every civilian need sacrificed to the equipment of fighting men. There were government restrictions in the furtherance of war effort that closed up many a small shop, with resultant loss of years of labor and capital. Government regulations, forms and impositions, have reached into the most insignificant type of operation to a degree undreamed of by home-coming boys. They have become a part of business. There was no free movement of labor round the country. Selective service regimented the worker to an extent unrealized by those who left Canada a few years ago.

It is true that business flourished, in the sense that there was demand for everything on the shelves, or that could be produced. But the income tax stepped in with such hungry hand, that most civilian business working extra hours and short-handed, would have been financially better off to have worked half-time instead of overtime. But the civilian desire has been to put forth maximum effort in order that the home business would be in good working shape when the boys return, thus assuring more jobs. The income tax took much of the actual profit to finance the war.

No, the civilian world has not come through the war unscathed. Anxiety for those overseas has ridden the hours and the days of families at home. Overwork has taken its toll in scores of ways. If the countryside, the little towns and the cities appear normal to those who return, it has been through prodigious and to a great extent unselfish effort.

Will the returned men think of these things? They are admittedly colorless in comparison with the heroic deeds of Canadians in far lands. But they have their part, a quiet but necessary part. They furnished the money that kept the armed services fed, clothed, sheltered and equipped with the best. They have held business together against great handicaps and if there is employment available for those who return it is because of incalculable home effort during the war years.

HIGHWAY SIGNS NOW UNDER REGULATIONS

Creating new safety measures, the Alberta Town and Rural Planning Board has issued new regulations that provide no signs shall be erected within 500 feet of a railway crossing or turn in the road.

Details of the new regulations have just been obtained by the Alberta Motor Association.

Directional signs will be permitted outside of any city, town or village, provided that the board's approval is obtained. Such signs shall not be more than three feet high and two feet wide. An annual license fee of $2 must be paid to the board for each sign.

The regulations also provide that the board's approval must be obtained for the design, location and construction of any building, or part of a building for a filling station, garage, or refreshments.

Plans for tourist camps also must have the board's approval.

LIFT RESTRICTIONS ON GAS STATIONS

Federal restrictions on the operating of gasoline filling stations were lifted on June 1 as another measure to get civilian traffic regulations back to a normal basis. The federal restrictions had been imposed as a wartime measure.

With the federal lifted, the control of these filling and service stations, including the fixing of opening and closing hours, rests with the municipal or provincial authorities.

Expressing satisfaction with the order in removing federal restrictions, officials of the Alberta Motor Association pointed out that it is necessary to take such steps in the interests of development of the tourist industry. It has been claimed by the Canadian Automobile Association that relaxing of restrictions on gasoline filling stations is an essential first step in building up tourist traffic from the United States.

The Unearthly Cat

There is nothing mild and non-committal about human beings' attitude toward cats. People are usually violently in support of these mysterious creatures or violently against them. Frances Wainwright in the American Mercury, writes about cats, under the heading "The Unearthly Cat." She says there is no other word to describe the cat, and the strange place it holds in national superstitions and mythology. The Egyptians worshipped The Cat, and appointed High Priests to attend its wants. The ancient Scots, French, Italians, Spaniards knew the cat was unlike any other animal, wild or domestic. It walked apart from all others of God's creatures, and they tossed it into flaming pyres or ovens because only fire has the power to destroy evil.

The writer says: "The dog is a warm-hearted fellow. The horse is obviously fond of man as a companion. Even the ponderous cow shows certain amiable reciprocity for our looking after her. But the cat remains as coldly alien as the moon. Probably pussy is the first animal man took into his house, but after all these ages, what has the cat become? Nothing at all. It remains itself. It does not love us nor hate us. It is totally withdrawn into its own enigmatic self."

"Even considered as a wild animal the cat does not conform. It lacks in warm give-and-take with fellow cats, and its ways do not conform to regular customs of zoology. Watch a dog eating. He gulps and bolts with natural racial memory of savage days when attack might come any moment. But not so the cat. It approaches its meal with sleek, disdainful leisure, sniffs and toys, and at last partakes with the same serene self-centredness that it does everything else. It is as though never had anything dared to molest a cat at its feeding, as if it lived in a magic circle."

"It is natural for animals to react with friendliness toward people in whom they sense kindness."

They are humbled by chastisement. But to all these common modes the cat is a contemptuous stranger. It may sicken to death, but it wants no comforting. It wishes to die alone.

"A cat will not labor for us, nor love us except for practical advantage. What calls a cat that it leaves its home in an instant and never comes back? What whispers into its peaked ears, so that it abruptly stops purring or grooming and peers with unhuman, unanimal intentness at nothing? Who or what is it serving?"

"The wild animals, the humans and the domestic animals of this earth, we can somewhat understand and be comrades with. But the cat we do not know and shall never understand. The cat is unearthly."

CANADA THEIR NEW HOME: W. Garfield Weston, Canadian-born member of the British House of Commons, who has given up politics to devote all his time to his extensive biscuit and pulp and paper interests in Canada, was enroute to his new home in Vancouver with his wife and five of their nine children on the Canadian Pacific Railway's transcontinental Dominion when this picture was taken. The two older Weston girls went on to Toronto, their father's home, to visit after the family arrived in Montreal by freighter. Still in England are the two older boys, one serving on a Canadian Navy corvette and the other at Oxford waiting his call.

"Some day
I'll own a General Motors
truck *"

In recent years, Canadian farmers have overcome a multitude of difficulties. Despite labour shortages, storm and weather hazards, they have consistently increased production, and harvested the record crops so vital to a nation at war.

They have been handicapped, by lack of proper distribution facilities, in getting produce to market, farm-fresh. Many who realize the time and labour a General Motors truck would save, look forward hopefully to the time when they are again available.

That time is coming...

The time when Victory signals a General Motors change-over from war to peace production... the time when all the experience, engineering skill and productive power now being used by General Motors to fashion tough, durable armoured vehicles, will be directed towards the production of sturdy, General Motors trucks—dependable, great-hearted trucks that will mean less work and worry, more leisure and prosperity for farmers and producers everywhere.

Great Artists
Of Canada

A very informative and interesting talk on Canadian artists was given by Miss Houston to members of the Home and School Association at a recent meeting.
There was a good attendance to enjoy the talk, which was made still more interesting by examples of the work of some of the artists mentioned.

After speaking briefly of earlier Canadian artists and their distinctive type of work, Miss Houston gave some time to the famous "School of Seven." Recognition in Canada was slow, until a purely Canadian art exhibit was displayed at the Wembley exhibition.
This brought acclaim that could not be ignored in the home land.
The speaker spoke of the artistry of the School of Seven, with their emphasis on color, line and pattern. In their paintings were strength, sincerity and gusto establishing a real Canadian art.
Speaking of outstanding interpreters of the North West and British Columbia, the speaker gave brief sketches of such artists as Fitzgerald of Winnipeg; Walter Phillips of Calgary whose block engraving is internationally known; Leighton of Calgary with his feeling for color and light; Cross, who was a civil engineer from England largely self-taught, but who has made the open range country the subject of many fine paintings; Ginsing of Calgary, son of the English novelist, who is of the traditional English school; Fripp, who is regarded as the best watercolor painter on the west coast; Emily Carr, whose love of B.C. forests appears in all her work; Scott who has done so much to promote interest in art in B.C.

Mention was made of John Innis, a one-time rancher near High River, whose art has historical value depicting the "Epic of the West."

Tribute was paid to H. G. Glyde of Calgary who has done much to make Canada art conscious. Miss Houston spoke of his visits to art groups in Alberta towns and of the extra classes which he holds in Calgary for children. She referred also to the Banff School of Fine Art which is a strong force in encouragement of artistic appreciation and the instruction given.

She made mention of a commendable war memorial in a high school of Saskatoon, where a very fine collection of Canadian art is being assembled, as an enduring memorial and a centre of beauty.

Judge Jackson of Lethbridge, is retiring from the office of district court judge which he has held for some years.

All restrictions in respect to manufacture of washing machines have been lifted in Canada, but there is still shortage of copperplate and steel as well as motors, so it is not anticipated that many new machines will be available from Canadian plants this year. A few may come in from United States.

THERE'S ENOUGH
IN THE SUGAR BOWL...
If we all share equally

We Canadians, together with the citizens of the United States and Great Britain, will eat less sugar during the balance of 1945.

To meet our own needs and the urgent requirements of our Allies and the liberated countries, our share of the reduction must total nearly 200,000,000 pounds of sugar during the rest of the year.

To assure fair distribution of what is left, the sugar ration is to be cut by five pounds during the next seven months by reducing the monthly allotment to one pound in June, July, August, October and December. In September and November, the allowance will remain unchanged at two pounds.

The ten pound sugar allotment for home canning, represented by twenty extra preserves coupons, remains unchanged. Two regular preserves coupons will continue to become valid each month.

ANSWERS TO YOUR QUESTIONS ABOUT SUGAR

Q. How does Canada get its share of world sugar supplies?

A. World stocks are pooled by the Combined Food Board of the United Nations which allots sugar to Canada, United States and Great Britain on a uniform per capita basis.

Q. Where does the rest of the world sugar supply go?

A. To other claimants, including liberated areas,
European neutrals, Russia, the Middle East,
New Zealand and other sugar-importing countries. Approximately one-half of this total is destined for liberated areas.

Q. Is there less sugar in the world today?

A. Yes. Because needs are up and production is down, world sugar stocks reached a new low at the beginning of 1945. By the end of the year, they will be down again, this time to a dangerous minimum.

Q. Why is there more demand for sugar?

A. The rising demand largely reflects the needs of liberated areas.

Q. Why is there less production?

A. World sugar output is lower for these reasons:

1. Enemy occupation of some sources such as Java and the Philippines. Java, of course, is still in Japanese hands and, although the Philippines are liberated, production is not expected to be restored until late in 1946.
2. Other export countries have experienced serious shortages of labour and fertilizer.
3. Record drought conditions and hurricanes have also cut into production in the important West Indian area.

INDUSTRIAL AND QUOTA USERS WILL ALSO GET LESS

Effective July 1, 1945, sugar made available to industrial users, such as bakers, biscuit and breakfast cereal manufacturers, makers of soft drinks, confectionery and candy, and jam and wine manufacturers, will again be reduced.

A further cut is also being made in the allotment to quota users, such as public eating places, while similar reductions are being made by the Armed Forces in the sugar quotas for service personnel.

ARROWWOOD

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Bishop and Marvin and Brenda were Calgary visitors on Saturday. They were accompanied by Mrs. K. G. Thring. Mrs. P. V. Van de Wark came home from Calgary Saturday night to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis and small son Brian.

Mr. R. Munsey was the returning officer here and Lac Lawrence Cannng was clerk.

Pictures were shown by the National Film Board on Tuesday night at the hall by the operator, Mr. Percy Boulton. Mr. Whitbread spoke briefly.

Eleven members from the local U.F.W.A. attended the constituency U.F.W.A. conference at Milo. This proved very interesting. First there was an enjoyable pot luck luncheon. Then the program was as follows: O Canada, sung; an opening address by Mrs. H. Douglass; address of welcome by Mrs. Allston, responded to by Mrs. Lyn Oldfield; community singing led by Mrs. L. Oldfield; reports from Arrowwood, Berrywater, Milo, Plainfield and Arrowwood Juniors; song, "School Days" and tap dance by little Helen Richardson; resolutions were discussed; drill and demonstrations of first aid and signalling of the Milo Cadets, under direction of Mr. John Marles; song, "I'm a Baby Giant Panda" by Joan Ward followed by a recitation as encore; community singing led by Mrs. Oldfield; talk by Mr. M. H. Ward on permanent membership, the co-operative stores and livestock co-ops.

Mrs. Allston displayed a lovely liams with a fine poem dedicated to Mrs. R. McBride, written by Mr. E. Beechman, inscribed on it. This was to be given to Mrs. McBride. A collection was taken up to buy another gift for Mrs. McBride to show the appreciation of the conference for her many years of splendid work as director. A telegram of greetings from the conference was sent to Mrs. McBride at Gardiner, Oregon.

Mrs. R. F. Williams tendered an invitation to come to Arrowwood next year.

There was a fine exhibit of handicraft and also quite a large collection of aprons and novelties sold at the apron and novelty bar for the Prisoner of War fund.

Miss Norma Hogg gave a talk on preparing foods for locker plants. Miss Hogg stressed the importance of sowing the right varieties of seed as not all varieties are suitable for quick freezing, and also of getting the vegetables to the locker quickly after gathering and of cooling meat before it is cut up. A delicious tea was served by the Milo local.

Miss Norma Hogg came to Arrowwood with Mr. and Mrs. Ward Wednesday night and went up with them to Calgary on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Butler returned from Banff this week, not from the United States as was erroneously stated last week.

A mother and daughter banquet will be held in the basement of the Church of the Brethren on Friday night arranged by the Ladies Aid of that church.

$2000 Damage Wm. Auld Fire

Sunday morning the Wm. Auld home at Brant, was visited by fire which destroyed the hen house, tractor shed and tractor, a loss totalling about $2000 upon which no insurance was carried. Fortunately the wind was in a direction which carried the flames away from the house and other buildings. Neighbors came quickly to give all help possible, and damage was confined to the above mentioned property. The fire was first noticed by Marion Auld, and the suspicion is that it may have been caused by some defect in electric wiring of the chicken shed. The help of neighbors in rallying to fire fighting efforts was very much appreciated by Mr. Auld and family.

Below is Vulcan's Curfew by-law. The council asks the co-operation of the parents in seeing that this by-law is observed.

2. That it shall not be lawful for any child under the age of 16 years to be on the street, or in any public place unless accompanied by a parent or guardian, after the curfew hour.

3. Any person or persons found guilty of a breach of this by-law shall be liable to the penalties imposed by the by-law dealing with the enforcement of the by-laws of the town.

R.C.M.P. Resumes Publication

It is good news to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and friends of the force to find that the R.C.M.P. Quarterly has resumed publication with an April, 1945, issue. This magazine has for many years served as a link in the R.C.M.P. setup, recalling old incidents of the service, and summarizing the new. It kept everyone abreast of developments in the service, and when war restrictions compelled lapse in publication, it was a real loss, not only to the Mounties but to those interested in the service.

However, the Quarterly is back in circulation again, and fully up to the old standards in every respect. There are the regular features of notes on recent cases, obituary, old timers' column, etc., besides some excellent special features, beautifully illustrated. There are articles on Corporal Shaw of Pincher Creek and his collection of guns by Freda Bundy; the return voyage through the North West Passage last summer by Sub-Insp. Larsen; the important duty of policing towns by Cst. Cawsey, and other features of general interest.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE MACLEOD RIDING

First I would like to congratulate Mr. Hansell on his victory in the Macleod riding and to thank him and all the other candidates for the clean manner and conduct in this campaign.

I would also like to thank all the people who supported me at the polls, and the people who gave so much of their time and efforts during the campaign.

Although we lost out in this Macleod Constituency, we are proud to have our Liberal Party returned to power with the Right Honourable W. L. Mackenzie King as its leader, the same government that has guided us safely through one of the greatest crises of our history and which will mean so much to all of us in the future.

ALFRED G. LEWIS

To The Voters of Macleod Riding

I wish to thank the Electors of the Macleod Federal Constituency who gave me their vote and support at the recent Dominion Election.

Although Mr. Bracken failed to gain a member for his party in Macleod Riding, we are proud of the gain in votes his party received.

Sincerely yours,

STANLEY WYATT

Hand Milking is on the Way Out

Freedom from the tiring and tiresome job of hand milking twice a day has been gained by thousands of farm families through the use of a modern milking machine.

One person can milk up to 20 cows in an hour with a milking machine—it keeps a good hand milker busy to milk 7 to 9 cows in the same time.

This saving of time and labor is important, especially when good farm help is hard to get, but at any time milking is a disliked chore that the family is glad to have taken off their hands. The hours of time saved with a milking machine does mean something in dollars and cents but it means a lot more in making farm life easier and more pleasant. Everybody welcomes the relief from the milking time blues that a milking machine brings.

The modern, practical and economical way to do things is to use machines instead of muscles wherever possible—that is why hand milking is out for dairymen who have experienced the comfort and convenience of a mechanical milker.

Among the time and labor saving machines your local Massey-Harris dealer has to offer is the Rite-Way Milker—the modern milker with the natural action. Ask him for particulars about this machine that does so much to make dairy farming easier and more profitable.

A Better Outlook!

With the war over in Europe our long-deferred hopes to get back into the groove, becomes more a reality than wishful thinking.

More merchandise in our lines will now become increasingly available. Restrictions and controls are on their way out. There will for a while be shortages in some materials, and the manpower problem will continue for some time as the big problem of re-adjustment is being solved.

However, we are on the road to a normal situation and the prospect of considerably improving our service is much better. We anticipate a heavy demand for hardware and we intend to give you the best at the earliest opportunity.

Life Goes On In Prison Camps

Ft./Lt. Lloyd Peterson, Pays Tribute to Organizations Boosting Morale. Says He Can Speak Only of What He Saw, With No Attempt at Overall Picture

Ft.-Lt. Lloyd Peterson, R.C.A.F., who has returned safely after 3½ years in a German prison camp, is very reluctant to speak of his prison camp experience from a personal angle. But when it was suggested that there are certain phases which it is to public advantage to know, he consented to tell something of what he had experienced.

First of all, respecting Red Cross parcels, he believes that if it had not been for the food from Red Cross parcels very few of the prisoners would have come back, and certainly they would not have been in condition to recuperate as rapidly as many of them have been doing. These parcels were literally life-savers.

During the years 1942 and 1943, the Red Cross parcels came through very satisfactorily and were a great boon to the camps. But in 1944 when German transport systems were disrupted, the parcels naturally were not so regular in arrival. The movement of other materials took precedence over Red Cross parcels.

Another great service to which Ft.-Lt. Peterson gives unqualified praise for easing the lot of prisoners was the "Prisoner-of-War Relatives Association"—Canadian headquarters for the association was Montreal, with Mrs. Assilon president. This organization did marvellous work for the boys, acting as go-between for prisoners and relatives, making suggestions to next of kin respecting types and quantities of articles to be put in parcels, securing government regulations that would permit more food in parcels and functioning in a score of ways to aid the boys in camps as well as kinsfolk at home.

Another institution which built up morale in camps and was also a medium through which contacts could be made was the Canada Club of the prison camps.

Speaking of the prison camps with which he was familiar Ft.-Lt. Peterson says Canada clubs performed many useful functions. Instituted primarily to help the morale of incoming boys, and to bring together all Canadians, they gathered for discussion of their home land, bringing together viewpoints and individuals from every section of the Dominion. Through this medium they had a sort of collective opinion to express in writing to the Legion and other organizations. They were concerned with re-establishment on their return. It served to keep alive a Canadian spirit, extended comradeship and made things much pleasanter in the day to day routine.

Another service of the Canada clubs with which Ft.-Lt. Peterson was familiar was "welfare work" on the part of new arrivals. These ill-fated boys, brought down and imprisoned were without any of the necessities of living. So the "cigarette fund" was kept operating to provide them with cigarettes. Soap and certain toilet articles were also gifts from the "pool," which made life a little less bleak for the newcomers.

One Canada Club put on a play "Toy Meets Girl," with all-Canadian direction and cast. This dramatic effort put on five performances in the theatre which seated 250. There were four girl characters, and the costumes were secured from the dramatic society and through the Germans.

At one place the boys had a swap-shop, which looked like a second-hand Jew store, and carried everything from dice to clothing. The boys sold or traded what they did not need for what they did want. Shoes, for example, might be traded for a pipe. Cigarettes held almost the place of currency, and formed the basis of most values. Articles were worth a certain number of cigarettes.

Ft.-Lt. Peterson wears a watch which is an assembly of eight or ten other watches. It is a 15-

GAS RETAILERS TO STAY OPEN EVENINGS AND SUNDAYS

At a recent meeting of the Gasoline Retailers of Vulcan, the following resolution was passed:

"All gasolene pumps are to close at 7 p.m. on week days, except Saturdays, with the further exception of one station to be elected which may stay open until 10 p.m. and must remain open all day on public holidays and Sundays: 7 hours for Sundays and holidays: 7 a.m. to 12 noon; 12 noon to 1:00 p.m. until 6:00 p.m. and from 7:00 p.m. until 10 p.m.

jewel movement, and has kept perfect time for one and a half years. The watch business was a thriving affair. Many of the watches of incoming men were out of commission through landing in water, or other reasons. But the camp watchmaker assembled these diamonds, took them apart, put them together, and might get one really good watch out of quite an assortment.

Camps Varied

He explained that he could give no overall picture of German camps, because they varied greatly, and one could speak only from personal experience. The first camp in which he was imprisoned was mainly an army camp, and the airforce compound in which airmen were segregated seemed very restricted. The army men had work and more freedom. The N.C.O.'s and a force were forbidden work. The diet at this time was very poor. There was a particularly obnoxious form of dried German fish, called Klipp fish, which was served with turnips about three days a week. It had a very strong taste, and some of the boys couldn't stomach it. The other days they had plain turnip. They were allowed about four average slices of German bread daily. When the Red Cross parcels began to arrive regularly, the boys were inclined to trade their German bread for Canadian biscuits. But the medical officer advised them to eat the coarse German bread for roughage value, which they did.

After moving to about ten different camps, Ft.-Lt. Peterson said the last prison camp in which he spent about a year, was by far the best. It was Stalag Luft 1, at Barth, and was a German propaganda camp. That is, it was in the nature of a model camp, to which correspondents and observers might be taken. It compared with German prison camps in Canada, and was infinitely more comfortable than most others. The officers' camp was very good, with rations better, a chance for sport, and such amenities.

In communication the prisoners were allowed to send out two letter cards and four postcards monthly, and there seemed no restrictions on incoming mail. All was censored very rigidly, however. A letter from home took about four months to arrive.

One of the most interesting souvenirs that Ft.-Lt. Peterson has brought home is a scrapbook, or "War-time Log," which was added to bit by bit during the period of imprisonment, and contains a variety of material. These scrapbooks were sent to the prisoners-of-war by the Y.M.C.A. and offered one good outlet for employment of the slowly passing hours.

The scrapbook which the local flier treasures offers glimpses of the thoughts and pursuits which must be very common amongst allied prisoners. It includes contributions from talented fellow prisoners, and references to camp personalities. The dedication verse on the front page is done in beautiful script. The young man who did the work completed a book for presentation to the King, and since his release he has been appointed assistant to the King's scriptist.

The book contains samples of the little Canada Club paper which circulated through the camp, containing breezy bits of news out of letters from various parts of Canada. It carried word of promotions in rank for the boys behind barbed wire, and even had a little column of stock news.

Brilliant color sketches in the book are the work of another friend whose family sent him paints to keep his pie-war talents from rusting.

There are many quotations in fine script from some of the great minds of the world. One of these is Prime Minister Churchill's comment on the feeling of a war prisoner. This sentiment and wording seems to strike closely to the reality, and was considered very accurate and worth remembering.

One section of the scrapbook is devoted to snapshots from home, and snapshots of various groups in different camps. Some of the camp pictures are not very clear, but the wonder is that such pictures were possible at all. It is just the evidence of what combined ingenuity could devise when need, or desire, was great. One snapshot shows a set of chessmen made out of soap, and similar evidence of achievement.

Amongst other souvenirs in the book is a German leaflet that attempted to escape would be no longer considered as a sport, and issuing a most blood-chilling warning.

Another section shows a collection of razorblade covers—hundreds and hundreds—from every country.

Surprisingly the boys in camp managed to get a sort of daily news bulletin, which was more or less in touch with Allied progress. Ft.-Lt. Peterson does not go into details about the way in which this link was maintained. But the boys were not completely shut off from knowledge of what was going on outside.

STRAWBERRIES

Ordinarily we would be receiving our first shipments of strawberries now, but the late cold spring has delayed ripening at least two weeks. On the 21st of this month, the ceiling price on strawberries becomes effective, from then on the canning companies are able to offer a much more attractive price than other fruit. Dealers in consequence prospects for strawberries are very doubtful.

This coming week we will be able to give more definite word regarding prospects for any supplies.

Refund Plan To Be Extended

To Include in Alberta Debt Refunding Plan, Alberta Savings Certificates

Extension of Alberta's debt-refunding scheme to give holders of Alberta's savings certificates the same interest rate adjustment as that planned for holders of bonds, was announced by Premier E. C. Manning. A special session of the legislature will be called to ratify the plan, Mr. Manning said.

The plan calls for more than $113,000,000 of the province's public debt and one of its features provides for underwriting of sufficient new bonds to cover all Alberta bonds now in default. Interest rates on these new bonds will range from two to 3½ per cent.

The premier said that the special legislative session would be called perhaps in August or September, adding there would be no object in calling the session until every detail of the plan had been completed, including the working out of various schedules of bond exchange and interest adjustment.

Mr. Manning said the province had received a certified copy of the privy council order broadly outlining the general principles of the scheme and the Dominion's part in it and that the provincial cabinet also had drafted and endorsed a similar order-in-council.

F/O Wilfred G. Baker, who trained in Calgary at No. 2 Wireless School, has returned to Canada after completing a tour of operations with the R.C.A.F.
